Dad stuck in US, police arrange teen's birthday

Pune: Vatsal Sharma had never imagined that his 15th birthday would be so special though his father was stuck in the US due to the lockdown.

On Sunday night, he cut his birthday cake on the bonnet of a police vehicle with the "Happy Birthday" song playing in the background.

After failing to contact Vatsal due to some technical issues, his father sent an e-mail to the Pune police requesting them to convey his wishes to his son. The Pune police forwarded the e-mail to the Pimpri Chinchwad police, as the boy stayed in the Sangvi area.

Pimpri Chinchwad police

The police reached the boy's home with the cake on Sunday night commissioner Sandeep Bishnoi told Sangvi police Dnyaneshwar senior inspector Sable to wish the boy with a cake. Sable told TOI, "We traced the family's address with a cellphone number and reached there at night. The plan was to celebrate the boy's birthday at his flat. But we called Vatsal and his mother to the parking lot. We wished him on behalf of his father. He cut the cake, maintaining the social distancing norms."

Sharma said, "This year the police made my birthday special for me."
